

3rd AfHEA Pre-Conference Training Workshops

March 10, 2014

AfHEA, in conjunction with partners at NICE International and the Disease Control Priorities Network, is pleased to offer two concurrent workshops for participants interested in economic evaluation for healthcare priority setting.

Principles of Economic Evaluation

- Audience: Introductory course. Those with no prior experience in health economics or economic evaluation are welcome to apply
- Objectives: This workshop will introduce some fundamental principles that should be followed in the planning, conduct and reporting of an economic evaluation to enable it to usefully inform decision making in health.
- Sponsor: NICE International

Extended Cost-Effectiveness Analysis

- Audience: Advanced Course. Those with prior experience in economic evaluation and an interest in equity and financial risk are welcome to apply.
- Objectives: This workshop will provide experienced health economists with the tools to use cost-effectiveness methodologies to include equity and financial risk protection as explicit outcomes of economic evaluations.
- Sponsor: The Disease Control Priorities Network
